The Ultimate Test for the Ultimate Floor

Style flooring is under its greatest test ever. With 70 million visitors expected to visit the Expo over the 6 months duration, Australia's pavilion is expected to be one of the crowd's favourites and welcome 7 million people. That's 96,000 feet a day that will be walking across Style's strand woven bamboo flooring. A tough demand for any flooring. Fortunately, our uniquely hard and durable flooring is up to the challenge. Our patented Style Green Technology™ uses a unique hydraulic technology to compress premium bamboo into boards with a remarkable density of over 1000kg/m³. To put that in perspective, contrast this against popular Red Oak and Jatoba with an average density of 600kg/m³ and 800kg/m³ respectively. It is this exceptional density which gives Style flooring its superior strength and unrivalled indentation resistance—both of which ensure excellent performance in commercial application, and enable us to confidently specify our flooring in one of the highest traffic environments imaginable. To date the floor is performing up to expectations.

The Shanghai Expo 2010 will run from 1st May – 31st October 2010
